

LOCALS

Don't miss attending the entertainment of the Ladies' Guild at Alexander Hall this evening. A nice program, good music and a supper afterwards are the attractions, and the cause is a good one.

Lessons given in Embroidery and Battersburg Lace, Mrs. James H. Painter. Kahului, Maui.

Six drummers, three from Honolulu and three from the coast, are selling up the Island this week.

Lahaina has an ice plant and soda water bottling plant in operation, and will soon have electric lights.

Mrs. J. W. L. Marshall of Wailuku has the agency for Butterick's patterns for the Island of Maui.

Cool, pleasant days and bright moonlight nights are making a paradise on earth of Wailuku this week.

The irregularity in the schedule of the Claudine will work much inconvenience in the matter of mailing the News.

The Pioneer Plantation has about closed its run for the season, the output of sugar being between six and seven thousand tons.

See the professional card of Sloper & Patterson in another column. Both are practical men, and they should do well on Maui.

In planning new buildings, attention should be paid to the regulations recently published in the News. The sheriff is right in insisting on a compliance with the law.

S. Ahmi sued W. H. Cornwell in replevin for the branded calf which recently caused trouble between them, and judgment was rendered in favor of Mr. Cornwell.

Letters have been received from the committee sent to Honolulu on behalf of Wailuku's claim to the county seat, and they report that at least two-thirds of the Senate favor Wailuku.

Senator Baldwin and representative Dickey deserve much credit for the stand which they took in the matter of the county seat, and their constituents on central Maui will not forget them.

High Street, between Main and Vineyard has been gravelled, and the work is continued down Vineyard toward Market street. This is a long needed improvement, and more of it would be acceptable.

The Maui polo club met the Honolulu club, and were defeated. From the Honolulu papers it seems that the Maui club were not well mounted, and that the victory was won by the ponies rather than the men.

Menuda and Tazui, two Japanese were tried this week by Judge McKay, on the charge of assault with a deadly weapon on a countryman by the name of Koedi, who was badly cut on the arm. Tazui was acquitted, and Menuda was committed for trial by jury. The row was the outcome of jealousy.

EDITOR MAUI NEWS:—

Would you kindly spare me a little space in which to discuss the minority report of Senator White relative to the location of the county seat on Maui?

Senator White's report says in part as follows: "It must be remembered that the town of Lahaina was the first in time to hold the seat of the Second Judicial Circuit ever since the year 1859, and Lahaina had the honor of holding it for a period of forty-two years."

"Wailuku, the next seat of justice, as far as the Circuit Court is concerned, has been created only twenty-nine years."

The question naturally suggests itself as to why the change should have been made twenty-nine years ago, and the answer is conclusive of the whole matter.

Lahaina, being at one time the rendezvous of the whaling fleet, at a time when there were comparatively few white men on the Islands, it was natural that it should become the seat of the government. With the disappearance of the whaling fleet, Honolulu snatched the laurels from the brow of Lahaina, and became the seat of government.

But with the development of the sugar industry, (say about twenty-nine years ago), the bulk of the population shifted from Lahaina to central and east Maui, and now Lahaina is merely an outlying district boasting of two sugar plantations, while on central Maui there are eight sugar plantations, together with at least three fourths of the population.

That is why the Circuit term of court was held at Wailuku, and that is also why the actual county seat of the Island, together with the residences of the circuit judge, sheriff and other leading officials was transferred to central Maui.

For years Lahaina has contended for at least one term of Circuit Court, and at a great inconvenience to the general public, this has been allowed, and might probably still be allowed, if the county seat simply meant two brief terms of the Circuit court each year. But it must be remembered that when a county seat is once established, the whole business of the county must be transacted there, increased as it will be by the provisions of the bill. The principal county officers will be required to reside at the county seat.

In that case the convenience of the people at large in the county must be considered, and as the bulk of them reside in central and east Maui, they will never consent to have to go to Lahaina, when it becomes necessary to visit the county seat.

Heretofore the people of central Maui have done little more than enter good natured protests at being compelled to go to Lahaina to attend court once a year, but now that the county seat fight is to be made, it is a safe guess that "the majority will rule."

MALIHINI.

Wailuku Water System.

Superintendent Bal of the Wailuku water works states that there are at present 150 connections with the Wailuku and Kahului water mains, and four more applications for the first of the coming month. Between the Wailuku depot and the soda works there are ten more applicants who will be supplied as soon as the main pipe is laid. Application for pipe has been made, but the government has not replied as yet.

Superintendent Bal has requested permission to employ a man for a month to look after the grounds at the reservoir site, plant trees, set out grass, and tidy up generally, but was informed that his request could not be granted just yet. This is a much needed work.

Nothing has been done yet in the matter of placing the fire hydrants, and it is possible that a healthy kick by the citizens who desire protection from fires will be needed, in order to get the hydrants in place. In this connection, a hose cart and at least 1,000 feet of hose are needed. I would be easy to organize a volunteer hose company, if we had hose cart and hose.

Assistant Superintendent W. E. Rowell is expected from Honolulu this morning, and he will probably take advantage of his visit here to look over our water system with a view to making any needed improvements.

All water bills for the present half-year, ending June 30 have been paid, the total revenue amounting to $1,401.15.

Lilluokalani County.

Word was received from Honolulu by wireless telegraph yesterday, that the county bill has passed the Senate, changing the name of Maui to Lilluokalani and changing the county seat to Lahaina.

Makawao Teachers Meeting.

The Makawao Local Teachers Circle held its monthly meeting in the Makawao school-house on Monday afternoon of this week. The attendance was good.

The study of "Snow-bound" was conducted by Mr. Dowdle. This lesson included the last part of the poem. It was decided that the Vision of Sir Launfal should be taken up at the next meeting.

Miss dos Reis gave an interesting and suggestive talk on "Songs for the Primary Room." She recommended the use of Mrs. Tucker's primary songs because the music of these is very simple and the words can be used in connection with nature study. She advised most of the songs be learned by rote and that very little instruction in the tonic sol fa, except by the use of hand signs, be given in the lowest grades. Considerable discussion ensued. One teacher present said that in his teaching he spends some time on each note of the scale and that he gives special attention to tone production and expression. Several others present objected to this on the ground that too much technical or mechanical work would deaden the interest of children who have as little taste for music as have many of the pupils in the public schools.

Mr. Crook spoke on the "Use of Text-books on grammar." He said that in the highest grades he sometimes uses "Swinton's language Lessons" and that he finds this gives good results. Considerable difference of opinion was shown here. Most of the teachers present were in favor of abandoning the use of text-books on grammar, because this study is of little or no use to most of the pupils after they leave school.

The programme for the next meeting will be as follows:—

The Vision of Sir Launfal (Prelude and Part I.)

Mrs. Sabey.

Vertical Writing

Mr. Kapohakimohewa.

Geography for First Year Pupils

Miss Oles.

About Town.

The Wailuku Plantation store is about finished so far as the wood-work is concerned, and will go into the hands of the painters next week. The frame work of the store warehouse is up, and the work of roofing and boarding in has begun.

The Ah Kee coffee shop is practically complete, and will be thrown open to the public today, with coffee at 25 cents a cup.

The painters are at work on the new residence of Wm. Goodness on Vineyard street. It has a very neat appearance from the outside, and as each of the rooms is 16 ft square, it will be comfortable and commodious on the inside.

The framework of Sloper & Patterson's two story building on Market street is up, and roofing is in progress. The interior will be lathed and plastered. The whole of the lower floor will be one large room, in which an up-to-date grocery store will be established at an early day.

The lanai room of the Windsor is completed, and the entire building is in the hands of the painters.

Anniversary Dinner.

On last evening, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baldwin of Paia gave an anniversary dinner, to celebrate the completion of the first year of their married life.
